

MINDSET REMINDERS

Even if I am struggling with something now, I can get good at it through consistent action.

Everyone is worthy and capable of success and happiness.

There is an abundance of time, money and resources.

Money is neither good nor bad, it is merely a means of exchanging value.

Pricing according to value unlocks financial freedom.

The market is always right. Give it what it wants and it will reward you.